

POST 2015 Action Plan Workshop

MR 12AB

Over the course of the Millennium Development Goals (2000-15) substantial poverty reduction has taken place, yet actual numbers of people living in poverty have increased. The SDGs (Sustainable Development Goals) will become the global policy framework from 2015, and will influence urban development policy and poverty alleviation strategies worldwide.

There is a challenge for design education and practice to contribute more to improving the lives of the growing numbers of the urban poor, including the disproportionate impact of climate change.

We hope to draw on the collective wisdom, knowledge, creativity and expertise of UIA delegates to develop a blue print that may contribute to education and practice reform that includes the voice of communities. Please join us on Tuesday, and /or Wednesday 2-4pm.

Through short stories practitioners, educators, recent graduates, current students, community and NGO representatives will help us get started.

The ACTION PLAN, the outcomes of both workshops, will be presented for review and ratification at 6pm Wednesday August 6 at the People Building Better Cities exhibition (1A5), followed by a performance by Diepsloot artists.
